Workspaces

Space design is trending toward activity-based, flexible floorplans that enable people to move, facilitate space delineation, and make reconfiguration easy. Organizations seeking to maximize their real estate investments require smart, multi-use, and agile products that improve efficiency while supporting the diverse ways people work.

Pergola™ is a freestanding architectural workspace where people can get away to connect, collaborate, or focus. Create a range of space and room solutions scalable to your needs through a spectrum of materiality choices. Simply specify, install, and reconfigure if needed—without the permanence of construction.

Creative Space Today

With its scalable design and range of applications, Pergola suits people's needs for choice. Designers can unleash their creativity to design their way—choosing from an array of materials, modularity, size options, and customization. Create the inviting spaces workers crave to keep them engaged.

Focus or Restore – Alone or Together

Organizations driven to innovate desire destination spaces where employees can complete individual or team tasks without distraction and away from the open-plan setting. Pergola workspaces with vertical surfaces and space division offer a sense of privacy, so people can claim control, reduce stress, and optimize performance.

Business Transformation

Leverage real estate in new ways to build spaces quickly, empowering employees to connect, collaborate, and focus. Pergola complements base building architecture with a series of bundled room solutions. With simpler planning that adapts to the floorplate, future proofing is built into the DNA of the platform.

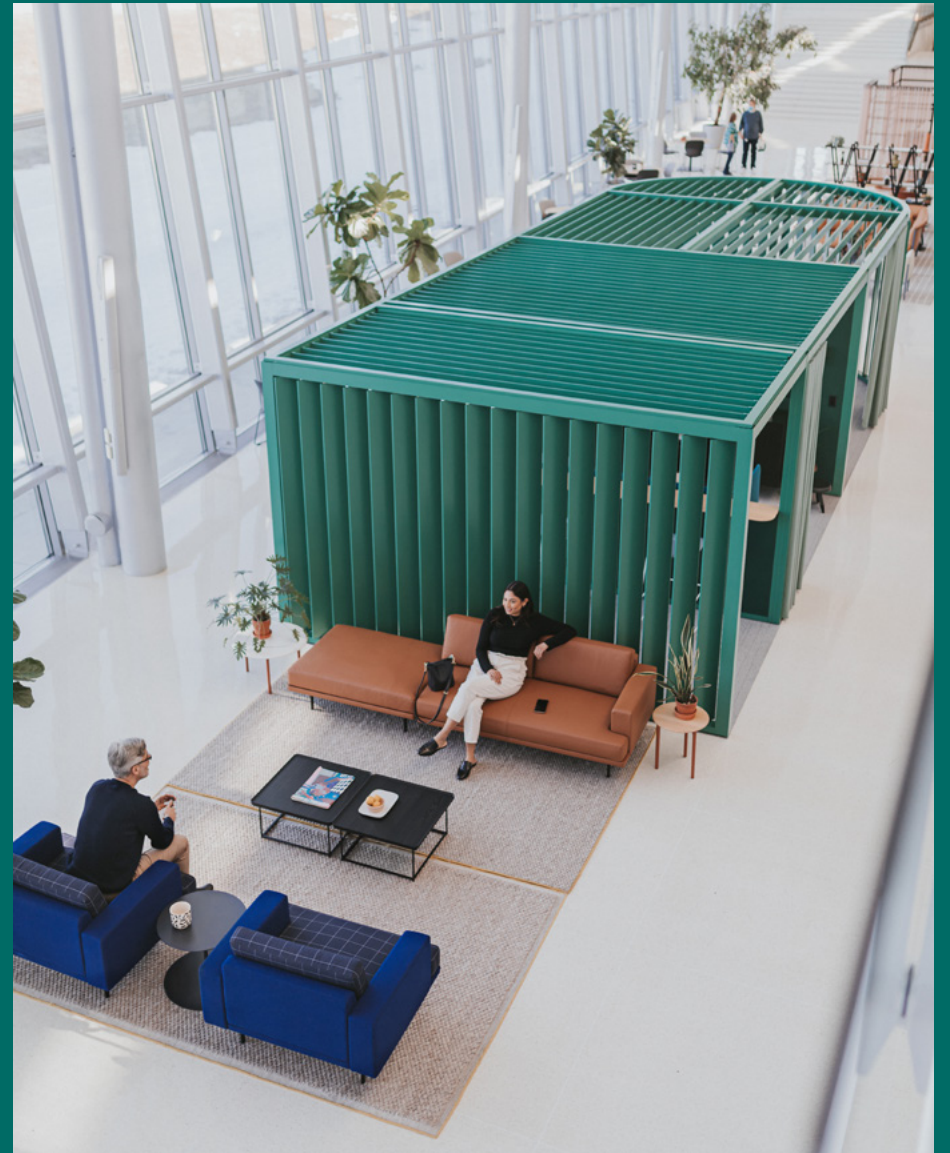

Design Choices

Pergola workspaces are built from an easy kit-of-parts with pre-established sizes and specifications. Begin with aluminum post and beam frames, then scale the look—from traditional to expressive. Designers have the choice to add high-performing vertical surfaces and integrated technology to delineate space. Enhancements include curtains, vertical slats, ceiling elements, and integrated lighting.

Haworth Design Studio & Patricia Urquiola

Our international team of designers collaborates with research and development partners to create multi-generational products and global platforms—with regional needs and preferences in mind. Haworth Design Studio partnered with Patricia Urquiola, an award-winning designer and architect with a studio in Milan.
